The Mystic Values of Freedom

A great deal of effort is made by free countries to persuade developing nations that they should not set up rigid bureaucracies, but should use a free-enterprise system instead. This is a tough job. There is no one quite as bureaucratic as the new bureaucrat, with his new uniform and new powers.

It seems to me that freedom cannot be sold to such people on its economic values alone, although the free nations are a showcase of abundance compared with nations where compulsion is the rule. Those who have not known abundance cannot believe that freedom will bring it, nor do they even know quite what it is. They read about or hear about or accidentally get a look at the affluence of Canadians or Americans, but many of them think the ordinary people possessing it must be special officials or lucky millionaires.

I believe the mystic values of freedom would be more readily accepted. Even the people in the least developed countries know there is something special about the man who speaks right from the heart, in freedom, instead of censoring his every word to what he believes others think or prefer to hear.

There is something forceful about a man or woman who acts from an inner conviction instead of from outer compulsion. It may sound mystical, but it is understood, because each person at some time or another has experienced the glow that comes from acting or speaking exactly as one feels he ought to speak or act, not caring at all whether there is another soul in the place who agrees.

When the good Lord gave us freedom, a knowledge of good and evil, a right to choose, it was a mystical gift indeed. It allowed for soul-testing, for development, for falling and rising. It was an individual gift to each of us. It conferred the chance to make mistakes and suffer the consequences as well as the right to succeed and reap the rewards. Even the savages understand this, because it is part and parcel of human experience.

And come to think of it, we citizens in this open society of ours might do well to review the mystic values of freedom from time to time ourselves.

How much is finished product worth?

A recent article in "Industry" sums up the case rather specifically. The comments in this publication follow:

"The conversion of raw material into finished product is a process that enhances its value according to the human cost in time, effort and money."

"This is a basic law of economics, the essential truth of which is well demonstrated by a plain bar of iron worth $5.00."

"When made into horse shoes, the same bar of iron becomes worth $10.50."

"Make it into needles, however, and it is worth $32.65."

"And turn it into balance springs for watches and its worth soars to $250,000."

"There is no magic about this.

The bar of iron can't become horse shoes, needles, watch springs or anything else unless something is first done to it."

"And, though the raw material is precisely the same, more time, effort and money are needed to make needles than horse shoes; and much, much more to make watch springs."

"What is here proved, in fact, is simply this: It's what we put into a product that increases its value."

Report From Parliament Hill

(Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P.)

Sept. 18, 1964.
My brief visit to the Macleod

Riding last week again proved to me the need for the Members of Parliament to get away from Ottawa in order to discover the grass roots feelings of their constituents. As everyone knows this has been a long continuous session of Parliament with the most tiresome part being on the flag debate. I am grateful for the many letters, resolutions and telegrams I have received from organizations and individuals from my riding on the flag issue.

For example, nearly all the Leagues in the Macleod Riding have asked me to support the Red Ensign as our national flag and were opposed to Mr. Pearson's three leaf maple leaf design. Many private citizens have written, all expressing the same view. In addition, local Social Credit Associations have forwarded letters and resolutions asking me to support the Red Ensign. The Progressive Conservative Associations have expressed their views and are all behind the Red Ensign and have asked me to lend support to their views in Parliament. With these organizations and individuals of the Macleod Riding expressing unanimous support for the Red Ensign, I have done everything possible to back up the apparent majority views of my constituents.

The question of a design for a new Canadian Flag has now been referred to a Parliamentary committee, which is to report back to Parliament in about six weeks' time. I think everyone will agree that this is the most sensible solution of the matter and, in my view, should have been done in the first place. A National Flag cannot have the appearance of being a political flag. The committee of the House of Commons will meet behind closed doors and if it is successful in arriving at a nearly unanimous conclusion on a design, such design cannot be associated with any political group. This is the way it should be. Why it took weeks of debate to impress this rather elementary fact on the government no one seems to be able to understand.

The lengthy debate on the flag brought forth certain information that the Flag Committee must consider during its deliberations. Perhaps the most important information produced is that approximately 40 per cent of the people of Canada wish to retain the Red Ensign as our national flag, and about 40 per cent wish to have a flag that does not incorporate the Union Jack as such; the other 20 per cent apparently do not have any views or don't care. It is quite clear from this information (which seems to be quite reliable) that neither Mr. Pearson's design nor the Red Ensign is acceptable as a national flag by even a simple majority of the Canadian people. Consequently, if we are to have a flag for our Hundredth Birthday, it must be of a design that is generally acceptable to most Canadians; it is impossible to have a flag design that the majority of Canadians will not accept. Most of us have strong personal views on this matter, but if we are going to keep our country together, all of us must be prepared to make some effort to accept the viewpoint of others in some measure at least.

As has been indicated on other occasions, there is a flag design circulating around Parliament Hill which appears to be acceptable to quite a number of Members of all parties, and which does include certain elements of the Union Jack. For this reason I think the chances of the Flag Committee arriving at a generally acceptable design are quite hopeful.

On the other hand, there are some Members of the Flag Committee who are known to have very inflexible views on the subject of the flag design, and I am rather afraid that this will not help the committee as a whole to reach a near unanimous decision on any design at an early date.

Unfortunately, during the discussion on the flag and the effort of Progressive Conservative party in support of the Red Ensign, the term "filibuster" has been wrongly applied by the press.

The word has been borrowed from the U.S. and is a procedure which is used in the U.S. Congress. The rules under which a "filibuster" takes place in the U.S.

Congress are totally different from any procedure which may take place in our Parliament. In a U.S. filibuster, speakers are unlimited as to time and on occasions are known to speak for hours and hours on end.

In the Canadian Parliament, speeches are limited to 40 minutes and these speeches must be related to the subject matter. In addition Parliamentary rules provide that the day's sitting ends at 10:30 p.m. unless extended by unanimous consent. Thus, it can be seen that the borrowed term of "filibuster" has no application in Canada.

For the sake of your children, for your own sake; think about fires wherever you are. Teach your children the rules of fire prevention.

MEATS and GROCERIES Main Street, Coleman

Only you can prevent the senseless loss of life and property caused each year by fire. Last year in Alberta, 42 people, 18 of them children, lost their lives in fire. Damage to homes amounted to two million dollars. Fire prevention is your responsibility. Check for fire hazards now, during Fire Prevention Week, and always be on guard!

- Never smoke in bed
- Check for safe, adequate wiring
- Safety-check your home heating system

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OCTOBER 4th TO 10th

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA

District of the Alberta Fire Commission

"Why?"

As we once again observe Fire Prevention Week, we are reminded that last year Canada racked up yet another set of sorry statistics!

Why? Why did FIRE cause a property loss total of almost $150,000,000?

Why did FIRE snuff out the lives of over 500 Canadians?

Why were there well over 80,000 FIRES in Canada?

Why were most of these FIRES in homes?

Why? Why? Why?

There is a simple answer to this question, and a simple solution to the problem of FIRE in Canada, it is the common, three-letter word YOU!

Three out of every four FIRES are the result of human carelessness! They should never have occurred, but because someone was careless, they did! Those persons that experienced these fires, if they survived, won't have to learn their lesson again, but how about YOU?

Are YOU prepared to profit from the sad experience of others, and really do something about FIRE PREVENTION; or are YOU going to insist, as do most Canadians, on waiting until you learn your own bitter lesson?

Over and over again we see headlines that read something like this: "Children Die as Parents Unable to Enter Burning Home". WHY, in Heaven's name, were the parents away from the home in the first place? And, if they simply HAD to go next door to play cards, WHY wasn't a competent Baby Sitter hired, and told what to do in case of fire?

"Frayed electrical appliance cords are dangerous," repeat the Fire Prevention experts, so what have YOU done about the frayed cord on YOUR electric kettle, steam iron or toaster? If YOU are waiting "just a little bit longer, until it REALLY needs replacing," it could be the most expensive WAIT YOU will ever experience!

"Clean out attics and basements" say the experts, so what about YOUR attic or basement? All that junk that has been lying around for a donkey's years, is nothing but a perfect breeding place for FIRE.

Those old books and magazines for instance; when do you think you are going to read them? That old chesterfield chair, and those boxes of old baby clothes, to say nothing of the old window blinds and lamp shades that have been in the attic for the last ten years!

Stop kidding yourself!

If an item has been dumped in the basement or the attic, and hasn't been brought out, or looked for, in over a year, the odds are 100 to 1 that it never will be, so do yourself a favor and get rid of it! It will do away with a serious FIRE hazard and besides, it will give you more room for this year's accumulation of junk!

Finally, let's mention smoking. — Every smoker has, at one time or another, experienced drowsiness while smoking, and has usually suffered minor singeing as a result. They are the lucky ones!

Our cemeteries are filled with others who didn't wake up in time, and became charred statistics in our annual FIRE record.

Nobody could help these people,— the responsibility was their's and theirs alone. They had most certainly heard all the warnings, just as YOU have. They chose to ignore them, secure in the ridiculous assumption that "It can't happen to me". Just for the record, it CAN happen to ANYONE; anyone, that is, who is foolish enough to ignore the warnings, and who considers FIRE PREVENTION as something strictly for others!

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hills)

The Growth of Co-ops

I see where one small-town citizen wrote to the editor to complain that the Co-ops are practically taking over in that town. In my own lifetime, I have seen remarkable growth in the Co-op movement, and if it continues at the present pace I doubt that there will be any independent merchants left by the time my son is my age.

While it may be true that Co-ops are run by clever men, I wonder if they are that much smarter than their private competitors.

I doubt it.

It seems to me it is the tremendous advantage they have been given by the taxation authorities that has accounted for their exceptionally rapid growth.

If I were a young man looking for a career, I would be very tempted to get into this business, at the top management level. I know of no other business which offers greater chance to succeed. How, indeed, can a Co-op fail when it pays taxes at such a low rate while competitors are paying up in the 50 per cent bracket?

Another big advantage, of course, is the declaring of patronage dividends, but not paying them out to the members; instead, the money is used for expansion, sometimes without interest, sometimes for long periods of time. Any good businessman or farmer, able to get such interest-free loan capital, could certainly grow by leaps and bounds.

The Co-operative principle is an excellent one. It started with a desire of good people to help each other. It pays local municipal taxes without complaint. I believe that it ought now, if it is to continue to be a highly-principled operation, undertake to pay its full share of the cost of running the country.

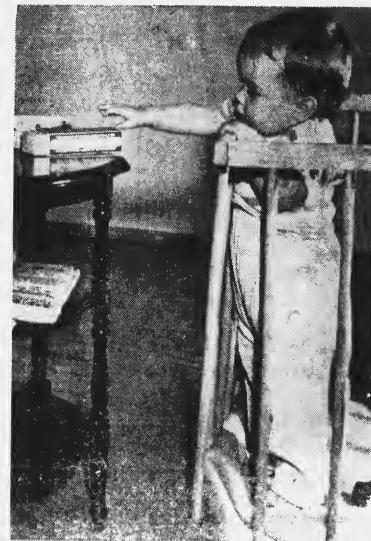

The burden of taxation is an onerous one these days. It seems unfair that powerful formations of capital, such as the big Co-operatives, — who do business with all-comers, should escape paying normal taxes in line with those of other companies.

If they would see fit to pay their share they would lighten the load on all other taxpayers.

Old words are good words

The preacher said that integrity was a word seldom heard in these times but older members of the congregation would know its meaning. It was mild enough only for the ageing.

Integrity means sincerity, honesty and justness. It is something that is not marred or violated. It is unimpaired, uncorrupted. It is soundness of merit principle, especially in relation to truth and fair dealing. A synonymous word is uprightness. But the preacher said that this was used even more rarely and he saw it only when he was reading the Bible.

Fortunately for the world there is an integrity that governs the conduct of people in their private lives and in their business lives. There, perhaps, it is not so rare as the preacher indicated. In Canada at least most business is conducted with uprightness. In the long run business will not survive if it is not upright.

Fair dealing with everyone, especially the customers, is something that is essential for the survival of any enterprise.

Jeunesse Musicale of Canada Concerts To be Held in Blairmore

A number of first-rate Jeunesse Musicale of Canada Concerts have been booked for appearances in the Isabelle Sellon High School auditorium in Blairmore this season. Season memberships to attend the concerts may be purchased from Mrs. M. Pinkney, Mrs. T. J. Costigan and Mrs. R. B. Burgman of Blairmore; Mrs. L. R. Amudsen of Natal, B.C.; Roy Upton of Coleman; Frank Edel of Frank, and from Arthur Tustian at Cowey.

The first concert to be held on Friday, October 23rd, will feature Marek Jablonski, noted pianist and grand prize winner of the 1961 JMC National Music Competition, held in Mount Orford in August of 1961.

The 24-year-old Edmonton pianist was born in Cracow, Poland, in 1939, and at the age of six received his first scholarship entitling him to study music at the Conservatory. After the Second World War he emigrated to England with his family and finally, at the age of 10 years, came to Edmonton.

His abilities were soon recognized and scholarships followed—and in 1956 he spent the summer studying with Mrs. Gladys Egbert of Calgary. Several seasons were spent at summer schools in Banff and Aspen, Colorado, where in April he met Mme. Lhevinne who suggested that he should study with her in New York. As a result he registered at Juilliard School of Music in 1957 and spent the next four years in New York with Mme. Lhevinne as his piano teacher.

After winning the JMC National Award in 1961 he made his first public appearance at Mount Orford, where he performed a CBC-TV gala concert. A week later tape recordings were made in the JMC Hall and 1500 copies of this recording were sold in a two-year period and discs were produced in France from the Canadian master tape.

Jablonski, well on his way, then gave 75 JMC recitals in Canada between August, 1961, and April, 1962.

He appeared as soloist on 21 occasions with 14 Canadian Symphony Orchestras and also fulfilled several engagements with the CBC. In the autumn of 1962 he gave a second tour for JMC and toured for the JMC de France and the JMC of Italy. In February of 1963 Marek was pianist in Carnegie Hall with the American Symphony Orchestra and two days later he appeared at a musical evening at Government House, Ottawa, in the presence of Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Madame Vanier. Soon after Jablonski began a trans-continental tour of 30 concerts in the United States.

In the fall of 1963, Marek Jablonski travelled to England on a Canada Council grant to work on a new repertoire with Mme. Ilona Kabos. In the early winter of 1964 he toured again for JMC de France and in the fall of 1964 he will be touring for JMC in Western Canada and the Eastern Townships. In the early winter of 1965 he is scheduled for concerts in Yugoslavia and Vienna.

The second concert to feature the Copenhagen Quartette will be held on November 27 and the third concert on January 22, will feature Betty Jean Hagen. The final event of the season to be held on March 26, will feature a percussion concert.

Vigna - Wesko Nuptials Exchanged In Coleman

Summer flowers flanked the altar in the Holy Ghost Roman Catholic Church, Coleman, Alberta, for the double-ring Nuptial Mass performed by Father Dennis E. Fleing, who joined in the sacrament of matrimony Anne Frances Wesko, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wesko of Coleman, and Ralph Angelo Vigna, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Elio Vigna, Blairmore, Alberta.

Mrs. Costigan of Blairmore, presided at the organ, while Mrs. Bettie Schian of Fernie, B.C., sang a number of solos.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a floor-length peau de soie with a full-length train flowing from a bow attached at the shoulder. Her shoulder-tip blush veil mixed from a cluster of white rosebuds. The bride's only jewellery was a pearl pendant enclosed in a silver heart flanked with diamonds, a gift from the groom. White roses and stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

Attending the bride in elegant full-length sheaths of aqua peau de soie with matching pill-box hats and veils and carrying bouquets of white daisies and baby's breath, were Mrs. Alice Coleman, sister of the bride, and the Misses Marie Teshima, Amy Teshima and Valerie Smith. Flower girls were Patricia Monique and Laura Anne White, daughters of the bride, dressed in floor-length semi-fitted white dresses with aqua sashes and pill-boxes. They carried little baskets of daisies and sweetheart roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Robert Whithorn of Calgary, Davi Cruickshank of Edmonton and Robert, Lucentine and Brian Ganske, of Calgary. Naoko Konno of Calgary and Gordon Meurin of Edmonton, were ushers. Ring-bearers were Bryan Edward and Peter Allen.

The second concert to feature the Copenhagen Quartette will be held on November 27 and the third con-

Owen, cousins of the groom, dressed in white suits with short pants.

Mrs. Mary Wesko, mother of the bride, was attired in a beige linen sheath featuring lace inserts on the bodice, accessorized with a beige cloche hat and white gloves and shoes, and a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Theresa Vigna, wore a sheath of aqua lace with white accessories. Her corsage was pink roses.

Following the Low Mass the couple knelt at an altar adorned with a statue of the Virgin Mary to make an Act of Consecration in celebration of the Feast of the Assumption.

Open house was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Gino Quarini of Coleman, proposed the toast to the bride at a banquet attended by over 300 guests, held in the Blairmore Elks hall. The groom responded and then proposed a toast to the parents.

Mr. Robert Whithorn, master of ceremonies, proposed a toast to the bridesmaids, and Mrs. Alice Coleman responded.

Miss Valerie Smith entertained and the Seta Boys favored the gathering with four numbers.

The bride's table was decorated with a magnificent four-tiered round cake topped with a silver christogram flanked by six candles contained in two beautiful sterling silver candle-holders.

Telegrams were read from Italy, Sydney, N.S.; Middleton, N.S.; London, Ont.; Winnipeg, Man.; Nelson, B.C.; and Calgary.

Guests came from Edmonton, Cochrane, Calgary, Lethbridge, Morinville, Trail, Cranbrook, Kimberley, Fernie, Taber, Radium Hot Springs and Pincher Creek.

For the honeymoon trip to San Francisco, Calif., the bride chose a silk tweed suit with chocolate brown accessories and a talisman rose corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Vigna are residing in Calgary, where Mr. Vigna is employed as principal of St. Cecilia School.
